

Eric Carmen, Light The Way

(eric carmen)

Recorded by oliver
United artists ua50735 / 1970

Dreams
All those silver dreams,
Though destined to be broken
Still linger in my memories as tarnished pages

Loves
That have been and gone,
Left saccharin and ashes
Scattered in a wind of silent indifference

Light the way, light the way
Where do I belong?
Light the way, light the way
Oh, where do I belong?

Tears
Bitter sweetened tears
Have left their burning traces
Of bridges soaked in kerosene and expectation

Light the way, light the way
Where do I belong?
Light the way, light the way
Where do I belong?

Hopes
For a time of peace
Left many broken hearted
For causes that are lost are felt far more deeply

Light the way, light the way
Where do we belong?
Light the way, light the way
Oh, where do we belong?
Oh, where do we belong?