

Eric Maliet, Turn My Life Around

Sometimes when i close my eyes
I know that it's no surprise
We met when we didn't know
That life wouldn't be a show

You know every time i pray
It's time to call it a day
I sit by you in your car
And you drive like you hide a scar

Well i've known so many heartaches
And i know how hard it takes
I'm so tired of walking on my own
But i'll never be that strong
All my changes have gone wrong
Feel like i'm a stranger in this town
Lying on the ground
Turn my life around

I run when i shouldn't walk
I scream when i just can't talk
But now that my tears run dry
I'd like to give it a try

You say that i can't survive
I'll die when i'm thirty-five
But time sits still by my side
Just like when i was young and wild

But now that i'm halfway through
I wish that it all comes true
I just want to cry and weep
To rest, lay me down and sleep

Well i've known so many heartaches
And i know how hard it takes
I'm so tired of walking on my own
But i'll never be that strong
All my changes have gone wrong
Feel like i'm a stranger in this town
Lying on the ground
Turn my life around

Well i've known so many heartaches
And i know how hard it takes
I'm so tired of walking on my own
But i'll never be that strong
All my changes have gone wrong
Feel like i'm a stranger out there
I have never met my brother
Feel like i'm a stranger in this town
Lying on the ground
Well, i turn my life around
