

Evans Blue, Beg

There's a lit cigarette:in the hand of my new angel she's blowing smoke like halos, and now everybody wants her but I shouldn't even bother because you made me so complete dear, but you left me so alone here hang a noose for my new sinner somewhere everyone can see it won't you beg me and then tell me how to love you like anybody else would

I know you're risking failure (risking failure) go run for cover (for how long) you better start to love her so much you're moving on and on

now there's a whole wide world...that wants to know have cheap hotels lost their turn-on? she's bathing in the neon and she's polluting all the airways while I'm passed out in the hallway and you left me so in love here, you left with so much hate dear was I creating only chaos-this world lives just fine without us:won't you?

beg me and then tell me how to love you
like anybody else would
I know you're risking failure (risking failure)
go run for cover (for how long)
you better start to love her so much you're moving on and on

will it change your life if I change my mind? when she's lit the whole wide world I want to know if you will beg me and then tell me how to love you
like anybody else would
I know you're risking failure, (risking failure) but I'd hope you set your levels (for how long) so you can run for cover you better fucking love her now are we this pathetic? you made me finally see it (will it change your life when I change my mind, will it change your mind when I change my life)

go run for cover you better fucking love her so much you're moving on I'm so pathetic, you made me finally see it got what you want? I'm gone for how long? for how long? for how long will it change your life?