

Everclear, Heartspark Dollarsign

(Originally a 'Colorfinger' song)

Time stops when the whispers blare
The voices drop hard,
But the eyes still stare
The world resolves into a
Death's head grin
Because i walk with pride
With a black girlfriend

My mom said not to bring her around
Cause she's black
My family would put her down
I'll break the white-trash
Ties that bind
Trade a love so pure for
A hate so blind

She said -- she said
Forget the fact that i don't
Look like you
She said -- she said
You're possessed with a power
Bigger than the pain

Time stops when we lie so close
In my room where we share
What no one knows

From the day that we start
Until the day that we end
I know i know i know now
We will never find a place
Where we could just fit in

Me and my black girlfriend

She said -- she said
Fend for yourself -- you're alone
She said -- she said
You are possessed with a power
Bigger than the pain

A power bigger than the pain

Heartspark dollarsign