

Everman, Believe

Ive watched you stumble through the valley
Ive seen every tear youve shed
Though it seems that no one cares what you are facing
I am here and I will be your friend

When every silver cloud is raining
And it seems all hope is lost
The sea that bars your way is raging
Ill lay My body down to help you walk across

I know its not fair how youre hurting
I hope My love will bring you peace

Please believe that I am listening
I know how lonely you must feel
I am here and you are not alone
Even wounded spirits heal

Nothing dries the tears of sorrow
That run so freely now unbidden down your face
And others steal the joy youve borrowed
But even hammered nails cant hold back My embrace

Remember I am right beside you
I hope My peace will give you strength

Dont turn away from this My head, My hands, My feet
I want you to see that this is the real Me
Rejected and beaten, abandoned and scarred
Ive been exactly where you are