

Everyday Sunday, Stand Up (Remix)

I will stand up now I will not step down
I will do my best to wear this crown
But I need you as you guide me through today
But I need you as you guide me through today

You wake up out of bed
Walk out of the castle and then you lift up your head
When will you wake up and see it takes more than just you to get through this life?
Going around the town maybe someone had brought him down
Different maybe, but not the same, everyone thinks.

I will stand up now I will not step down
I will do my best to wear this crown
But I need you as you guide me through today
But I need you as you guide me through today

I will stand up now I will not step down
I will do my best to wear this crown
But I need you as you guide me through today
But I need you as you guide me through today

He's going up there now, and all the things he has found Everything around is new
No more holding back as the crowd looks from afar
Everything he has is you
Everything he has is you

I will stand up now I will not step down
I will do my best to wear this crown
But I need you as you guide me through today
But I need you as you guide me through today

I will stand up now I will not step down
I will do my best to wear this crown
But I need you as you guide me through today
But I need you as you guide me through today
But I need you as you guide me through today
