

Example, Perfect Replacement

I've told too many girls I loved 'em
I've told too many girls they're the one
So why am I sitting here all alone
How do you measure fun

I've cut lost property too many times
And I can't live properly a piece of me died
I wasn't aware that Mona Lisa cried
Maybe I remember my decent side
Wash the kisses off my neck
And left my past in the basement
I need to find your perfect replacement

Lets start join my party
Had a little heart for the heartless bastards
So shy decide to wear glasses
Scream like you mean like you wanna go faster
'Cause I never slow down
Tears overcome I been some in town
Drown your knees if your star still bleeds
Well you'll never take a ride in this merry go round

We'll never know what we may find
Find on the other side
We'll never know what we may find

I've cut lost property too many times
And I can't live properly a piece of me died
I wasn't aware that Mona Lisa cried
Maybe I remember my decent side
Wash the kisses off my neck
And left my past in the basement
I found your perfect replacement

Hope you remember my love
Remember my name
Put a message in the post up
Hope you get it by may

Left my past in the basement
I found your perfect replacement

I felt something
Never need your nothing again
I felt something
Never need your nothing again
I felt something
Never need your nothing again
I felt something
Never need your nothing again
I felt something
Never need your nothing again
I felt something
Never need your nothing again

Who's laughing now
I found your perfect replacement
Left my past in the basement
I found your perfect replacement