

Exilia, No Colours

Somebody told me the world should be free
With no religion
Wondering who, wondering where it began
I need some shelter
Facing the lies, facing the lies we've been told
With no protection,
Wondering where, wondering who made the choice to cast
The first stone
I need to breathe
I need some oxygen
I need to breathe
I need some oxygen
I cannot breathe anymore
Wake up

Somebody dies while somebody eats
It's just a sentence,
Did someone laugh while someone else's disappeared?
It's just a question,
Don't need a flag, don't need a flag to belong
No colours for my world
No colours for my world
No colours for my world

Somebody gave me a reason to live
With just his passion
Wondering where, wondering who built the cage
I need some shelter
Follow the line, just stand in the line with you all,
With no reaction,
Wondering where, wondering who made the choice to cast
The first stone
I need to breathe
I need some oxygen
I need to breathe
I need some oxygen
I cannot breathe anymore
Wake up

Somebody dies while somebody eats
It's just a sentence,
Did someone laugh while someone else's disappeared?
It's just a question,
Don't need a flag, don't need a flag to be proud
No colours for my world
No colours for my world
No colours for my world

Wake up, wake up, it's all around you so
Wake up, wake up, it's all about you
Wake up, wake up, it's all around you so
Wake up, wake up, it's about what you ignore
Wake up

Somebody dies while somebody eats
It's just a sentence,
Did someone laugh while someone else's disappeared?
It's just a question,
Don't need a flag, don't need a flag to complain
