

Face Of Anger, Strength To Overcome push back at the world around me I've been the slave they made you see I've been the one they wanted me to be don't push me down

I've been the one that they held back on the ground confused in a life that is so profound I've been the one they wanted me to be
don't push me down

the strength to overcome me
the strength to rise again

I'm pushing away at the things inside
I'm running away but I cannot hide I'm pushing away at the things inside
to overcome

the strength to overcome me

push back at the ones who held me down break the chains that are cold and hold me bound still lost in a maze that now surrounds don't push me down
been the blind that they forced me to be lost one in a world that's never free filled with hate in all degrees
don't push me down
watch them drown in the fear that is now me pay the piper, time to pay the fees watch them burn on a cross they made for me don't push me down

the strength to overcome me
