

Face To Face, Everythins Your Fault

Have you heard them talk about it?
You say they're wrong but they know all about it
Have you tried another story?
We're tired of all the lies and allegories
Every single thing's your fault
There you are not really jaded
You've learned to live being underrated
But they don't know just what you're made of
Because of them who knows how you will end up?
With you it's always something
When everyone's the same
Don't you try to blame me
