

Face To Face, Run In Circles

you are all the same
go the way you came different names
but very little else has changed difficult to find
easy to resign
didn't seem to matter when I didn't mind

out before it's in everybody wins
give them what they want and they are giving in nothing in return
will we ever learn?
it's jumbled
and it's getting harder to discern

I run my mind circles
the vertigo
I've had enough
it feels as though nothing's going to change