Face To Face, Run In Circles

you are all the same go the way you came different names but very little else has changed difficult to find easy to resign didn't seem to matter when I didn't mind out before it's in everybody wins give them what they want and they are giving in nothing in return

will we ever learn?
it's jumbled and it's getting harder to discern

I run my mind circles the vertigo I've had enough it feels as though nothing's going to change