Face Tomorrow, Equation Unequal

I fear this empty house the loneliness devours silence fills the room but what replaces you it made me fully understand that time cannot be bend

don't explain how you have figured out a way to handle this and talk about the things that tear me up inside my head you never did what you said

I think I heard your voice so soft yet so much noise

it made me fully understand that time cannot be bend break through, find out, somehow build up, reverse, right now if time cannot be forced to bend then I will force myself

don't explain how you have figured out a way to handle this and talk about the things that tear me up inside my head you never did what you said