Failure, Gone

the name escapes me now but once i remembered in place of wonder not long ago there was no (name or two) the wonders of this place always amazed always deceived nothing had a place nothing had a purpose until i found out all things had their mission the sky was not so high the sea not so frightening always amazed all things had their mission purpose purpose purpose purpose