

Fair Haven, Over Tonight

I can see the load you carry
In your eyes as your turn off the lights
What's matter, what's wrong with him
Is he a devil, in disguise
I shouted real loaf as I tried to make see
Is he not what you anticipated
When you turned you back on me
Heavy is hte rain that falling down
Where, you've been
Scares me now and then
Don't wait and see
If he can make it better again
'Cause in the back of your mind
You knew it all the time
Have you tried just letting go
There is emptiness of course
And a whole loatta force
Can you tell which way the wind blows
Can you see the light, It's stell in your eyes
Can you fell what's right, but it's over tonight
