

Fair, Pause

I can't control what's on my own
Take the moment that you shut me out
But in the calm before the storm
I remember what it's all about

I don't blame you this time
I don't blame you this time

I still believe that anything can come from this love

Behind the tears you kept for years
Is a longing that I know too well
If I could pause, centemplate my thoughts
It could take a piece out of this hell