

Fairyland, On The Path To Fury

Climbing the mounds
I can feel the pain inside me Riding alone searching for a reason to live

The wave of destruction took my soul away

Force of the wind fury never seen before The sound of your laughters remain in my heart

On the field the sky is burning taking shades of a wintery night
I can see a thousand sparrows
drawing a figure into the light

I'll take my force
In the darkness of your eyes And seal my fate
by the cold steel of my sword
And before a long time
My rage will be free

Lost in the shadow was my heart my mind was thorn in flames
And by the sacred magic stones I'll see the light again

On the field the sky is burning
taking shades of a wintery night
I can see a thousand sparrows
drawing a figure into the light

On the field the sky is burning
taking shades of a wintery night