

Falling Cycle, Heart Turns Black

I watched your heart turn black and the pieces of your life are on the ground Your withered sun will not come up tomorrow
The beauty of your life is cracking and every word you say is another spike in his hand You will never know how much you mean to him and now your lies are eating away your confidence
I watched your heart turn black