

Familiar 48, Place Of You

Somehow I knew, these familiar places, that I had been before
I thought I'd run, to escape feelings that I had felt before
No one can take me anywhere like you
Nobody else is you.
And how will I live like this
With I everything I did
No one has ever made me feel like you
And how did we get this way
When everything seemed okay
No one could ever take the place of you

I fought off fears that I'd been hiding,
For many loves before
But all I knew you had that something
I never felt before

No one can take me anywhere like you
Nobody else is you.
And how will I live like this
With I everything I did
No one has ever made me feel like you
And how did we get this way
When everything seemed okay
No one could ever take the place of you
Not often not to realize that you were in flames,
Never wanted anything to change.
Guessed a lot of reasons why you seem a mistake,
I want you to stay.
So now I know, these familiar places, that I had been before
No I won't run, to escape feelings, that I had felt before
And how will I live like this
With I everything I did
No one has ever made me feel like you
And how did we get this way
When everything seemed okay
No one could ever take the place of you
Of You
