

Far From Heroes, Stormy Skies And Bloodshot E

I took every word you said for the gospel truth instead instead of thinking for myself but now I think like someone else I took every word you said for exactly what it meant and every time you spoke I could expect a sugarcoat your beautiful lies would eat me inside your eyes are bloodshot and your face is turning red but I'll never forget you'll forever regret

all the hurtful things you said alright....

at first I thought that you were nice on second thought I've always thought twice something about you always through me off like every time you opened up your mouth something about you always made me weird something about you filled my mind with fear and every time you speak I don't expect the truth to leak and your beautiful lies would eat me inside

but now....

your skies are cloudy
and your conscious must be dead
and i'll never forget

your running out of time so just repeat that line over and over
over and over
over and over

but now....
