Far-less, It's Not Me, It's You

I would dig and dig
And dig 'til I was abstract
I'm not myself again
Who will miss us when we're gone?
Only time will tell
Of what smell surrounds

There's no escape from the damage we've done
Remember to forget why you came
I'm left for dead in my home town again
So remember to forget why you came

I would love to hide my head
'Til this was over
So we are finished with it
Lack of confidence is well-known
By someone that I am
There is no use to run
We barely stand

So when you disappear
Do you run with angels?
Are you safe without fear?
So when you disappear
Do you lie with the dogs?
Do they lick your wounds?
