

Farmer Boys, We Sow The Storm

you close your eyes and walk out through the open door you fold your hands together on your knees once more the heavens kiss you with a flame it burns your skin but there's no pain and it pours

we sow the storm that is breaking up the sky
oh
we sow the storm in your heart you see the clouds as they assemble up on high you feel the multitudes surround you in the night

there's nothing here to buy or sell there's only heaven and there's hell
and it pours

the dogs of war have business cards and flesh for sale, by the pound they chew until your bones are bare with teeth that gleam like silverware but
