Fastball, Our Misunderstanding

Rip out the trees and plant your flag Now I know just where you stand Nature means nothing to you Something that you can't control And we make ourselves miserable Trying to fill the hole

It's sad that our misunderstanding Has turned into a war I don't know you anymore

How was I supposed to know I was steppin' on your toes The momentum builds to a fever pitch Talkin' but I just can't hear Watchin' our problems multiply Wishin' they would disappear

It's sad that our misunderstanding Has turned into a war I don't know you anymore, anymore And our love got lost in the translation And when I see you out You're a stranger to me now You're a stranger to me now

I, I wish I could talk to you I wish I could make you see How much I care How much you mean to me

That our misunderstanding Has turned into a war I don't know you anymore, anymore And our love got lost in the translation And when I see you out You're a stranger to me now You're a stranger to me now
