

Fatal Flowers, We Thought They Loved You

He had no sense of knowing your troubles ahead
We thought that you and your people almost shared the same bed
Looking at you lying there dead as can be
Your incrowd is laughing as if there is nothing to feel

We thought they loved you

Well was it worth it now fears came true
The sacrifice you gave was the last you could do
The immortal one is dead now, it has come to an end
A new one will arise, is that the way it was meant?

We thought they loved you
