

Fates Warning, Through Different Eyes

We're walking within a shadow where echoes of different times resound looking for memories to relive in yesterdays that can't be found.

Through different eyes
we keep looking for what we lack.
Changing minds
take us away, and you can't go back.

And staring into ageless eyes that shared secrets too dark for light we're searching for old bonds in places that lie forever out of sight

Through different eyes
we keep looking for what we lack.
Changing minds
take us away, and you can't go back to different times or ageless eyes, free from sorrow.
Changing hearts will hide the past from tomorrow.

Through different eyes we try to find people and places we've left behind.