

FFH, Here I Am

Here I am my knees are on this floor again
Take away my pride, reveal this heart within
And send Your rain of mercy, let the healing begin
'Cause You've brought me to this place and I can honestly say
That slowly I've forgotten all the where's and why's
Forgotten all the times You've been right by my side
And I've begun to think that life has passed me by
But it's only by Your grace that I come here and say

Here I am, falling in the arms of grace
Here I am, seeing You're the only way
Here I am, You have come to plead my case here I am, inside the walls of mercy and grace

Slowly I'm becoming one that's more like You
To live the kind of life that You would have me to But forgiveness only comes to those who ask it to
So I'm asking for Your grace as I kneel here today

So I will run into Your arms, as You reach out Your hands
I will fall into Your sweet embrace, oh Lord, here I am
