

Fifteen, Resolution

Say you saw another, act on his hate and misunderstanding
And it makes you so angry, and it makes you so mad
So what kind of example, are you gonna set
Cuz violence breeds violence baby, and forgiveness breeds forget
We were told violence was wrong, and handed a list of situations
In which it would be justified, to compromise
Our disposition of offering forgiveness, to those who don't understand, there ain't no reason why
So wait just a minute now, what happens to your righteousness
The moment you justify your ill intentions towards another person
And it's gone
Say you got a problem, and you want a solution
Where you going to find it now, where you gonna get resolution
Will you find it in angry words? no
Will you find it in a hateful mind? no
Will you find it in a clenched fist? no
Will you find it in the end of a gun? I think not
So take one word of advice
From Mahatma Ghandi, Martin Luther King and Jesus Christ
You'll find resolution, in a Loving Heart and in a Loving Mind
He needs Love
She needs Love
We needs Love
You needs Love
