

Fifteen, Someday

All alone she'll lose herself
Such a long road down
Such a tragic way to go
Runnin' bears no rewards
She's desperately seeking an inner joy
That is always out of reach
She gets too caught up to see
Running too fast to see
She's got the answer
Sees it and runs away
Love is always waiting
When she needs a fix
Desperate mind Desperate heart
Loneliness is tearin' us apart
She's got She's got to stop
She's got to stop someday
Dear sunshine So nice to hear you're doin' all right
I almost forgot how much I miss hearin' you say
I'll see you again someday
Dear sunshine Did you forget about the rainy days
When we were together I'd hold you in my arms and say
Please don't take this away
Don't take this away Can't replace the innocence
You mean the world to me Can't replace the innocence
You mean the world to me Can't replace the innocence
Don't take Don't take this away
Don't take this away
I'll see you again someday
And we can pretend that it is today
I'll see you again someday
