

Filmmaker, Breathing Room

you always said that if i'm a star then you're a constellation but the sky is burnt out and we're just going through emotions you've got this mile wide smile that follows you and lights up rooms i'm getting sick and tired of waiting in the dark tell me you need some time alone you need some room to breathe and i'll be on my way whenever you need some time alone just tell me you need some time alone and if you need to find me i'll be wandering the streets dining alone at all our favorite places to eat and drinking alone waiting for the phone to ring i hope whatever's in this bottle leaves me brave enough to sleep

if you need some room to breathe then i'll be on my way
whenever you need some time alone

then i'll walk on and you'll just say feelings fail and people change we'll pretend that when we meet we're better off as friends

[x2]
and if you say theres no way then when you need me i'll be gone lipstick smiles touched to parting lips we'll be alright.... one last time, not unlike the last time

we'll be alright
