

Finch, Awake

One devotion to an empty moment.
Can't you stay tonight?
Silence broken with words unspoken.
Now she's on her knees (no more)

"Feeling so useless, can I beg for one more?" she said
Taking with arms wide open.
Longing for sleep again.

The air is clearing.
Again, we're breathing.
Water turns to wine.
The day is tired,
the night inside her.
Now she is alive (no more)

"Feeling so useless, can I beg for one more?" she said.
Taking with arms wide open.
Longing for sleep again.

But now, I'm awake...
But now, I'm awake...
But now, I'm awake...

Keep breathing, 'til you feel something,
Take my breath
(Away!) Keep breathing, 'til you feel something, take my breath away
(Away!) Keep breathing, 'til you feel something, take my breath away
(Away!) Keep breathing, 'til you feel something, take my breath away
(Away!) Keep breathing, 'til you feel something, take my breath away

"Feeling so useless, can I beg for one more?" she said.
Taking with arms wide open.
Longing for sleep again.

But now, I'm awake (I'm awake)
But now, I'm awake (I'm awake)
But now, I'm awake (I'm awake)
But now, I'm awake