

Finger Eleven, Scrumpy

Listen, I hear them again,
They call my name,
They understand it all.
I believe in the words that they said,
But I'm so scared,
They'll never leave my head.

There's no way out of this.
You're living through me,
But you can't escape yourself.
You're everything I need.

I try to remember some more.
The more you give it,
The more it ignores.
You're lucky to have something at all,
To love you,
If ever you do fall.

There's no way out of this.
You're living through me,
But you can't escape yourself.
You're everything I need.

It's wrong to laugh,
I hate this place.
Why can't you follow?
I'm quiet again.

Listen, I hear them again,
They call my name,
They understand it all.
I believe in the words that they said,
But I'm so scared,
They'll never leave my head.

There's no way out of this.
You're living through me,
But you can't escape yourself.
You're everything I need.

It's wrong to laugh,
I hate this place.
Why can't you follow?
I'm quiet again.
