Five Finger Death Punch, Crossing Over

Perched alone, he sits there broken An elder man with storm clouds setting in his eyes He counts the sands of time, remembering days gone by It's seemed like yesterday before it washed away

Hey, don't wait for me there Just find your own way Hey, don't wait for me there 'Cause I'll be there soon enough

A widow's life ticks out like clockwork A thousand tears she's cried a hundred times before But now that he is gone, she's ready to move on It all just fell away, it seems like yesterday
