

Flaw, Reliance

so you think the areas gray but it continues each day a bad example of the attitude you portray act like I owe you my life you should be burdened with strife Can't find a single reason I can live with you as my wife so i continue to pray hope that you'll go away a bad addiction to a home wrecking thing who plays with my heart and that's the bottom line i feel so empty what can you give me that I can't give myself and what part of my life can you fix, that I can't fix my damn self god i'm losing patience each day i've put myself in harms way can't seem to justify none of the shit you say can't find another way out here's nothing left but pure doubt i'm on the verge of pulling my hair straight out so if you listen to me not to the powers that be we're not supposed to be together can't you see in decision is the bottom line i feel so empty now [chorus]
i'm gonna show you now this time i'm getting out i've said it many times but this time I have figured out just how i'm moving on it's taken way too long inside I know i'll feel much better when you're really gone
[chorus]