Fold Zandura, First Stars

these are the first stars tonight and for the rest of my life these are the first words ill say into the dark of today you are my first love at last now that time is slipping so fast wait for might after my strength has fallen wait for hope to rise wait for life to rush in the air im breathing if you help me through ill try these are the first stars in sight maybe my last glimpse of light these are the first stars