

Folkearth, Hugin & Munin

"The whole world wide, every day,
Fly Hugin and Munin;
I worry lest Hugin should fall in flight,
Yet more I fear for Munin."

Four wings spreaded in the northern sky
Sent out everyday to gather knowledge
Far beyond the glance of dawn
Return with the shadows to the land of the norsemen
And over the Oden's shoulder
Tell what their eyes saw
And over the Odin's shoulder their ears
Become Oden's ears

All-father I flown to the west and I saw
The dragons sail, beasts of the waves
All-father I flown to the east and I saw
Woods and fjords beyond the nine worlds

Father of the god of the thunder
Whose Mjollnir guards our folk
We will ride the skies of the whole world wide
Until the Ragnarok comes

Father of the god of the thunder
Whose Mjollnir guards our folk
We will ride the skies of the whole world wide
Until the Ragnarok comes
