

Foo Fighters, Once And For All

Oh misery come marshal me in
No better place for me to begin
I'm coming in from out of this rain
The time has come to wash you away

The lovers are riding again
The lovers are riding again
Oh gather round, sing your sins, amen
My time has come, once and for all
My time has come, this means war

Oh bring to me your broken and blue
No matter if it matters to you
A longing like never before
I've had enough now I need more

The lovers are riding again
The lovers are riding again
Oh gather round, sing your sins, amen
My time has come, once and for all
My time has come, this means war
My time has come, once and for all
My time has come, this means war

Hey
Forgive me, debility
I'll sing you all my sins

My time has come, once and for all
My time has come, this means war
My time has come, once and for all
My time has come, this means war
My time has come, this means war
My time has come, this means war
My time has come, this means war
My time has come, this means war
My time has come, this means war

The lovers are riding again
The lovers are riding again
The lovers are riding again
The lovers are riding again