

Fool's Garden, Probably

(Hinkel / Freudenthaler)

Dan is drinking coffee
Mary's drinking tea
Betty's having breakfast in the plastic surgery
Some say she's a beauty
Some may say she's mad
But she doesn't care what the people say and dyes her red hair black

You don't know,
what they will say
You probably've to do it your own way
You don't know, what they will see Absolutely nothing - probably

Tom is vegetarian
A little fool they say
His father wants to change his mind
He's trying every day

Anne is loving women
Fred is loving men
And everybody shakes their head
'Cause noone understands

You don't know...

In the corner plays a gypsy girl
With Indians and with Jews
Penny sings along with them though she wears different shoes

You don't know...

You don't know,
what they will do Noone ever knows,
you don't know too
You don't know,
what they will say
You probably don't need another way
