

Forever Changed, Alone

The doorbell's ringing loudly.
I see my friend alone.
He sits down in a chair by the phone.
There's something behind his eyes
He's wearing a sad disguise.
I've never seen him so depressed.

And he lifts his head,
And this is what he said:

Where can I go when I'm alone? (It's hard to know the way)
Where should I turn, How can I discern?
It's hard to know which way to go.

The front door opens gently,
Another man appears.
He brings the room such joy and cheer.
There's something behind his eyes
A love I can't describe.
The man sits down next to the other.

My friend lifts his head,
And this is what he said:

Where can I go when I'm alone? (It's hard to know the way)
Where should I turn, How can I discern?
Do you have answers?

The man starts to say...
I'll never leave you all alone.
Ill never leave you all alone.
