

Four Letter Lie, The Ordinary Life

Like Belle and Sebastian, we're dressed to impress.
(It's all for you).
We've got it all, but can't find the meaning.
(This is where love ends).

These words we're made to hurt in this ordinary life when you're starving for recognition, these wounds were made to heal.
This has never been about breaking hearts just following our dreams.

I replay these moments every day. We're getting closer. I can taste it. Can you feel it?

Can you feel it? Ohh.
Can you feel it? Yeah.
Can you feel it? Ohh.
Can you feel it?

This is all everything that you could be.
Leave the heart at home. Let's take this down a tone.
This love secrecy is killing me. It's killing me ohhh.

We've come this far to turn back now from all the nights we've spent apart.
These days have come and passed us by. Only the strong survive.

There's gotta be more to life than this.
In the blink of an eye this could take us alive.
It's okay to say no. Please just make up your mind.
In the blink of an eye this could take us alive.
Leave us starving for home. Take me back where I'll never grow old.

But rest assured I'm coming home.

This is all everything that you could be.
This love secrecy is killing me.
This is all, this is all that we could be.