

Fractured, All For You

So many things i see in your eyes, my love for you i cannot disguise. your sweet lips - pressed up against mine, Ill hold you close until the end of time. I wake up to a brand new day, the stress and fears wont go away. I try my best to push on through - persistance, love, its all for you. The name of something so sweet fair, I could die in her arms, strangle myself with her hair. So innocent and pure - untouched, like angels wings ... so full of lust. I wake up to a brand new day, the stress and fear wont go away. I try my best to push on through - persistance, love, its all for you. I wake up to a brand new day, the stress and fear wont go away. I try my best to push on through - persistance, love, its all for you.