

Fractured, Between The Lines

Read between the lines, of our narrow minds. Just wait and soon you'll see, our hearts are empty. Our sockets are unseen, the ultimate machine. You can say your prayers, but your god no longer cares. They died giving us a future. They cry as we took away their past. We lied when we promised liberation. Genocide for freedom, logic unsurpassed. The pain the agony, its all you'll ever see. All your suffering, it doesn't mean a thing. We will never know. just how far you'll go, until the time is nigh, until we all must die. They died giving us a future. The cry as we took away their past. We lied when we promised liberation. Genocide for freedom, logic unsurpassed.