

Fractured, Only Human Remains

I feel the breeze on my skin, as the rain falls it begins.
These moments now,
before the storm
will keep you calm,
will keep you warm.

I try to hide,
lust is lost in my life,
searching but I'll never find.
I cry,
I ask why,
love is lost,
nothing gained,
never live my life again.

Take for granted
all the things,
never happy from what it brings.
Always want what I can't obtain,
human nature can't be explained.

I try to hide,
lust is lost in my life,
searching but I'll never find.
I cry,
I ask why,
love is lost,
nothing gained,
never live my life again.

Breaking ties on broken dreams, life is never
what it seems.
Blood and sweat
it never ends,
not until your light transcends.

I try to hide,
lust is lost in my life,
searching but I'll never find.
I cry,
I ask why,
love is lost,
nothing gained,
never live my life again.