

Framing Hanley, Alone In This Bed (Capeside)

Waking up without you
It doesn't feel right
To sleep with only memories
It's harder every night
Sometimes I think I can feel you breathing on my neck

Tonight I'm reaching out to the stars
I think that He owes me a favor
It doesn't matter where you are
I'll hold you again

I wish I could hear your voice
Don't leave me alone in this bed
I wish I could touch you once more
Don't leave me alone in this bed

Not tonight
Not tomorrow

I've got the feeling
That this will never seize
Living in these pictures
It never comes with ease
I swear if I could make this right
You'd be back by now

Tonight I'm screaming out to the stars
He knows He owes me a favor
It doesn't matter where you are
You'll be mine again

I wish I could hear your voice
Don't leave me alone in this bed
I wish I could touch you once more
Don't leave me alone in this bed

What about the friends that we had?
We'd be crazy not to go

Leave me in capeside

I wish I could hear your voice
Don't leave me alone in this bed
I wish I could touch you once more
Don't leave me alone in this bed
Don't leave me alone
Don't leave me alone

Don't leave me alone in this bed
Don't leave me alone
Don't leave me alone

Don't leave me alone in this bed
