

Frank Black, Another Velvet Nightmare

Today I felt my heart
Slide into my belly
So I puked it up with liquor
And I slept right where I lay

And I dreamed the backs of cards
For the faces were not telling
No I never have felt sicker
And I do not want to wake

Here comes another nightmare of you again
Another velvet nightmare come true again
Oh, I should have seen it coming
Oh, please don't let it end
My nightmare of you again

No I never would have come here
But my eyes they would not focus
So i took my last three dollars
And i spent them on a drink

I had visions of you dear
But they floated without notice
All these drunkards do is hollar
Till this drunkard cannot think

A curtain falls
A scene rewinds
It seems your blue eyes glisten

Here comes another nightmare of you again
Another velvet nightmare come true again
Oh, I should have seen it coming
Oh, please don't let it end
My nightmare of you again