

Frank Duval, Give Me Your Love

Something strange was in the air when I woke up last night.
A special formed light and a far away voice was talking to me:
Give me your love
try to believe in feelings.
Give me your love
try to believe in me.
Give me your love
time has a special value

A moment of love that's eternity.

Give me your love
you'll find a door of glass and light

You'll open it you'll leave the night
you'll never feel alone.
Give me your love
that's the sign for you to rise

Into a new dimension of life
give me your love.
The voice strange and light faded away when dawn came
And left me behind with these words in the air:

Give me your love
you'll find a door of glass and light

. . .