

Frank Sinatra, Nobody Wins

(K.Kristofferson)

[Recorded June 5, 1973, Hollywood]

Anymore it doesn't matter who's right or wrong.
We've been injurin' each other much too long.
And it's too late to try to save what might have been.
It's over; nobody wins.

Make believin' in forever is just a lie.
And it seems a little sadder each time we try.
'Cause it's a shame to make the same mistake again and again.
It's over; nobody wins.

We've gone too far, too long, too far apart.
The lovin' was easy; it's the livin' that's hard.
For there's no need to stay to see the way it ends.
It's over; nobody wins.

We've gone too far, too long, too far apart.
The lovin' was easy; it's the livin' that's hard.
For there's no need to stay to see the way that it ends.
It's over; nobody wins.
It's over; nobody wins.
