

Franklin Daniel, Will She Ever Forgive Me?

Release me from this pain I feel and from this lonely state,
I cannot bear this suffering, its weight is far too great,
I beg of you forgive me dear, I've caused you such distress,
I never meant to hurt you so, don't love me any less,
The war that must be fought, forever, lasting through the night.
No one's love, can be bought, nor is their love, ever in sight.
Will she ever forgive me?
Will she ever have faith in me?
I pray to God, that'll she give me a second chance
To prove my true romance
Once again, I look into your eyes, as you look into mine.
The fire in my eyes, has yet to die, I find myself in a serious bind.
Wanting only what you see, I'm afraid, will not do.
For there is much, much, more to me, that no one can see, not even you.
Finally, my gaze becomes a stare, into the depths of your heart.
The fire in my eyes, is still there, but I'm falling apart.
Will she ever forgive me?
Will she ever have faith in me?
I pray to God, that'll she give me a second chance
To prove my true romance
I wish i could be with her day and night.
close by her side, holding her tight.
I wish she had never let me go. How much i loved her, she'll never know.
Will she ever forgive me?
Will she ever have faith in me?
I pray to God, that'll she give me a second chance
To prove my true romance
