

Front Line Assembly, Wisdom

(lyrics written and sung by Kristy Thirsk)

To others the pain was obvious
The colours of shame a bruise - unjust
Abuse of trust can't be wiped
I can't remember why
I chose to say goodbye
I'm terrified of what
I might have severed
I tried to forget the drowning truth
Lashing inside my sea of youth
Life seemed a fair sacrifice for peace
I can't remember why
I chose to say goodbye
I'm terrified of what
I might have severed
I ended up too high
But never learned to fly
So coming down
I'm very thankful (you were there)
