Fully Down, Love It All

Take a step back And live for what you have You take it for granted It's easy to pretend That everything is wrong When you're feeling pitiful

You should know Your life's worth more than this And you will never know You're in denial So love it all Love it all

All these minds All the time Always wanting

It could be worse You could have no one there to tell you You need to give it time And understand what's wrong Then you'll feel like nothing's lost
