Funkadelic, Eulogy And Light

Our father Which art on Wall Street Honored be thy buck Thy kingdom came This be thy year From sea to shining sea

Thou givest me false pride
Funked down by the riverside
From every head and ass may dollars flow
Give us this pay
Our daily bread
Forgive us our goofs
As we rob from each other

He maketh me to sell dope to small children
For thou art evil
And we adore thee
Thy destruction and thy power
They comfort me
My Cadillac and my pinky ring
They restoreth me in thee
Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of poverty I must feel their envy
For I am loaded, high and all those other goodies
That go along with the good god big buck

To young whores in muck grows there Ahead in time the unexpected soul-searching beam of the strobe But now, the stairway looms And as I rise The cries of kittens, gray, make way For there, now near Here now, gone, alone I feel my wrist, it flicks the switch No lights reveal the room or me She sees, then panics, grabs a light I scream, silent comforts that are not heard I panic, for I have not said a word Hysteria hold the room in sway I run, I back away, to hide From what? From fear? The truth, the light? Is truth the light?
